As the COVID-19 pandemic evolves, we are continuously re-evaluating our safety measures and processes to keep our employees as safe as possible. To align with new CDC recommendations and the requirements enacted in several states and localities, beginning May 1, we will require everyone who enters one of our sites to wear a mask or similar face covering. We have chosen May 1 to ensure all sites have sufficient supplies of masks to provide to employees. Those sites that already have enough masks, or that are located in a state that requires masks be worn to enter a place of business, will implement the mask rule sooner. We are also notifying our vendors and partners about our new requirement and have developed posters for all our entrances to alert suppliers as well. As we previously communicated, if you bring your own mask to work, it must be approved by your manager and may not cause a safety hazard to you or a contamination risk to our food products. Our new Personal Face Masks Policy summarizes the company's requirements on masks and offers instructions on the safest way to put on, remove and store a mask. We understand those with certain health conditions may have challenges with wearing certain types of masks. We will evaluate such instances on a case-by-case basis. We also recognize that wearing a mask may not be comfortable or pleasant for many people, but it is a necessary extra step to help keep all our employees and their families safe. To be clear, wearing a mask will not take the place of our hygiene and social distancing protocols, which the CDC recommends are the best ways to help prevent the spread of the virus. Masks are meant to supplement these practices to provide another layer of protection for you and your co-workers. Throughout this crisis, we've been impressed by the effort employees are making to take care of each other. Two weeks ago, we asked if any employees could make masks. The response was incredible; to date, we've received about 7,000 homemade masks from all parts of the company. We're also receiving some from family and friends of Campbell employees. One notable donation came from Alan Kinkle, a former research associate in Process Safety who retired from Campbell after 35 years. Using his great-grandmother's 1948 Singer sewing machine, Alan made 50 masks and donated them to our employees last week. Stories like this are great reminders that Campbell is indeed a family, and demonstrate how we will get through this together. Many thanks to all of you who have made masks, as well as those who are stepping up to help in any way you can. #TogetherWeCan Bob Furbee Executive Vice President of Global Supply Chain Rob Allen – Transportation Planner 13515 Ballantyne Corporate Pl Charlotte, NC 28277 T: 704-557-8298
